Day 4: Drop Your Line to Female Clerks

The Aim of this Challenge

Now that you gained more confidence by talking to stranger girls, it's time to make things a little more interesting by starting to use some fresh lines during your conversations with them.

This is going to make your interactions more natural and stimulating both for you and them. Especially when you'll learn to use the lines with confidence and spontaneity.

Challenge Requirements

1. A list of 5 shops to visit where there are female clerks;
2. A list of lines to use with those girls (you find them below).

Challenge Goal

Go to 5 shops (or any other business where there are female clerks) and ask them a question related to their work. After that, drop them another casual line.

Social Experience Points Earned

Upon completing of this challenge, you will earn 81 S.E.P that you can use to get special coaching resources, trainings and even 1-1 support.

Challenge Briefing

You can virtually go talking to any woman. The female clerk working at H&M, a pharmacist, the cute cashier at the grocery store or whoever inspires you.

After you ask a question (related to their job), then you can drop your standard line.

“Yes, Sal but I don’t know what to say!”

Don’t worry, I’ll give you some ideas now.

In The Clothing Shop (Zara, H&M, Calvin Klein)

Let’s suppose you’re in a clothing shop and a clerk is folding some clothing items. You can go there and ask her something like:

- Your question: “How much is that shirt?”
- Female Clerk: “Hey! It's 60 dollars.”
- Your casual line (option 1): “Nice, I guess I should wear it at my next party!”
- Your casual line (option 2): “Nice, for me it’s discounted at 30 Dollars, right?”
- Your casual line (option 3): “I'd love your advice on how well it looks on me.”

At the Bakery

- Your question: “What’s the healthiest bread you have?”
- Bakery Female Clerk: “We have whole wheat bread or the 5 cereals one.”
- Your casual line: “Cool, I gotta get ready for summer, you know!”

At the Pharmacy

- Your question: “How much are those condoms?”
- Female Pharmacist: “14 Dollars”
- Your casual line: “I’ve never tried them. Do you think they’ll work, or I’ll become a father in 9 months?” (That’s a harder one)

Those are just some examples that resonate with my style, but you can use a line of your own if you feel that’s better.

💡 Challenge Tips

Tip #1: Try to be spontaneous when you drop your line. I know this can be hard at the beginning but the more you'll practice, the easier and the more naturally you'll deliver your lines in the future.

Tip #2: The stress shouldn't be put on the line itself but on the way you deliver it.

That's because 93% of human communication is basically non-verbal, meaning that what actually matters is how you say things with your body language and tone of voice.

If you practice your line beforehand, that can be an excellent way for you to get the feel of how best to deliver it.

Tip #3: If you manage to hook them all right! Keep up with the interaction by being spontaneous and going with what comes up to you naturally without trying to plan too much.

In any case, if you want to run away after you drop your line you're free to take the first plane to Honolulu as the purpose of the challenge is just to drop it.

💭 What You Can Expect from This Challenge

I genuinely believe that if you manage to drop your line with ease, then things will get super fun out there. The secret is in getting into the right vibe and effortlessly delivering it to the workers.

If you get into a state where you don't care about the outcome and just enjoy the process, you'll succeed like me in this picture on the right.

If you'd love to receive support on this challenge, let's have a 1-1 session!
